Other Business:

The Email List is having problems, on our current site. Gary did some research, and is suggesting a move to Gagggle Mail. There was a suggestion that we move to using Discord, instead of using an Email List. We will need to do some more research, and will discuss this again, at the February meeting.

The Amazon link has been removed from the Starward Bound home page. It looks like they have eliminated the program that allowed us to receive a small percentage of money, based on the items that were bought, from Amazon, by going through out webpage.

The meeting was adjourned at 7:38.
